

XM is the best thing that has ever happened to my car, even when they had commercials they were no more than 2 minutes (as apposed to the what seems to be 10 minute ones on regular radio) Even though I don't get local weather here (from XM) I think for once this should be done right, rather than make XM becaome slightly less of a compettitor, make the local stations improve their products. They are just trying to make it where they can continue to do the same old same old, make them change, XM is the best thing since the CD Player. I haven't listened to local radio in almost 2 years. Did the local stations cry about CD Players, I'm sure they did. Let them cry until they show that they are willing to try to improve the crap they make us listen to, give it a year, and then try it. Don't take away anything from XM they work very hard at giving us (the people) what we want to listen to, Even Kiss has a radio station, go figure....
